J. T. WATERHOUSE

We are expecting a large invoice of China from the factories in France and England. The goods will be of the same fine quality that we have always carried in stock.

To make room for the new and get rid of the old we offer at less than cost odd pieces in French and English China. These comprise Teas, Coffees, Breakfast or Dinner Plates, Vegetable Dishes and every thing else in China used on the table. They are not in full sets but in odd pieces. This is the first odd piece sale we have held and you get a great benefit if you take advantage of the opportunity presented. There are not many pieces, and the first customer gets a bargain.

THE WIDDER WHARTON.

Her Dan Was Gone, but There Seemed to Be Others.

A couple of miles west of Prairie City I was overtaken by a man on horseback, who informed me that there had been an accident in the town by which a man had been killed, and that he was then on his way to break the sad news to the widow. She occupied a dugout about a mile farther on, and as we reached the place we found her sitting on an old box at the door and puffing away at her pipe. She gave us a nod and a look of inquiry, and the man with the mournful news cleared his throat and blew his nose and finally said:

"Mrs. Wharton, in the midst of life we are in death."
"What you drivin' at?" asked the woman as she gave him a sharp looking over.

"We are here today and gone tomorrow," he continued. "We cometh up as a flower and are cut down."

"Who's goin' tomorrow?" she demanded. "If you think I am, you've made a mistake. What's the matter with you, stranger—got cramps or sunthin'?"

"Mrs. Wharton, I am the bearer of news."

"Waal, what is it?"

"It's bad news."

"Let'er come and don't be beatin' all around the bush. Is taxes goin' to be higher?"

"No—not that."

"Got to give our lands back to the Injuns?"

"No."

"Judgment day comin' party soon?"

"No. Widder Wharton, we know not what a day may bring forth."

"Waal?"

"We are a wife in the mornin' and a widder at night, and sich is life."

"Who's the widder?"

"Mrs. Wharton, our husbands go forth—go forth at the rising of the sun, and—"

"Look here, mister man," said the woman as she rose up and lifted a handy club from the ground; "hev you got anythin' in pertickler to say to me?"

"I hev, widder," he answered.

"Then spit 'er out and don't act like a fool! What's happened?"

"Your husband is no more on this earth."

"Why ain't he?"

"Cause he's dead. He fell agin the saw up at the mill this mornin' and was cut in two."

"Humph! You mean Dan?"

"Yes."

"Gone far good?"

"Gone to a better land, I hope. Widder Wharton, may heaven gin you strength to bear up agin this awful blow."

"Y-e-s—um! See them critters over by that haystack?"

We looked where she pointed and saw five men sitting in the shade of a haystack, each one with his face in his hands and his elbows on his knees.

"Who's them?" asked the messenger.

"Callers," she replied, "callers to see if I was a widder and on the marry, and at least five more will be along afore dark. I guess heaven will gin me strength to bear it, and I'm much obliged to you. And now I must go in and change my apron and put on my shoes and git ready fur a rush."—New York Sunday Journal.

A Mystery of the Mills.

In the mail delivered at his West Philadelphia residence the other day William May, the well known ship chandler, discovered a most remarkable document. It was an invitation to his own wedding, which occurred in 1867, and where the missive has been during the intervening 29 years is a matter of no little mystery. It was addressed to a friend of former years, who then resided at 333 Wharton street. Considering its age, the envelope is in a very good state of preservation, although completely covered with hieroglyphics added by postal officials. The invitation card, while yellow with age, gives little evidence of its 29 years of strange existence.—Philadelphia Ledger.
